++ Valid for broadcast between 0600 and 1800

Headline:
Heavy rain followed by torrential thundery showers.

Today:
A band of heavy rain will cross the region from the southwest, clearing by early to mid-afternoon. This will be followed by widespread torrential and thundery showers, with hail possible too. Light winds and feeling humid. Maximum temperature 20 deg C (68 deg F).

Tonight:
Heavy thundery showers will only slowly ease through the evening, especially in the east of the region, leaving a cloudy night with some clear spells. Feeling muggy. Minimum temperature 12 deg C (54 deg F).

Sunday:
A drier day than Saturday, but still a scattering of showers around, some heavy. Showers fading through the afternoon leaving more frequent sunny spells. Feeling warm in the sunshine. Maximum temperature 22 deg C (72 deg F).

Outlook for Monday to Wednesday:
A much more settled spell of weather to start next week with sunny spells. Feeling warmer as a result. Dry for most, but the chance of an isolated light shower.
